YELLOW FEVER

- Tanzania requires all travellers journeying from high-risk countries, including Kenya, to have a valid yellow fever certificate.
- Rwanda, previously listed as a yellow fever endemic country, is now considered low-risk and is no longer on the watch list. However, travellers are still advised to carry a yellow fever certificate if transiting through it.

Wildlife

The Serengeti is home to incredible biodiversity. From the Great Migration, which makes it such a sought-after safari destination, to rich indigenous and migratory bird species, endemic plants, plains and big game, and the tiny forms of life we often overlook. There's no guarantee of what will be seen each day, but it will be awe-inspiring.
